Promoting excellence in library and information science education...

June 26, 2009

Janice Lachance
Chief Executive Officer
Special Libraries Association
331 South Patrick Street
Alexandria, VA 22314-3501

Dear Janice:

The Board of Directors and the members of the Association for Library and Information Science Education (ALISE) would like to congratulate the Special Libraries Association (SLA) for one hundred years of service to information professionals. SLA has become a global organization that empowers its members through learning, advocacy, and networking initiatives.

Currently, ALISE and SLA do not have any formal partnerships. But as we both grow and strength our member services, we hope to see benefit through a relationship with SLA and its Academic division.

As SLA celebrates its centennial anniversary, we recognize its accomplishments and strengths. We hope that the next one hundred years, we will see your association grow and develop its programs for the needs of the library community and information professional everywhere.

Sincerely,
